You, Short Course Man, Are You Equipped to Get the Most Good From Your Stay In Columbia?

There is system and science to getting an education just as there is to raising corn, or doing anything else worth while. Much depends upon the equipment you have.

The Missouri Store exists solely to equip students for efficient work. Our expectation to continue in business is based solely upon our giving entire satisfaction, upon our "delivering the goods".

Books. Every book used in the University may be found on our shelves.

Fountain Pens. Next to a textbook a Fountain Pen is most needed by students. The Sterling, Waterman and "Dollar Missouri" fountain pens are used by almost every student in the University. They have stood the test of years.

Notebooks. For 15 cents we have a Special Short Course Notebook, the handy loose-leaf kind. All sorts of other notebooks, "lab" books, Manila folders, wire clips, pencils, pens, erasers, and all the little things which make for efficient work.

Blotters are given away. Come and get yours.

Track and "Gym" Suits. The regulation uniforms worn in all branches of athletics we have. Also tennis, golf goods, track shoes, etc.

The College Room. The College Room, a place for relaxation, is the finest at any college in the west. Hot and cold drinks are served from the fountain. A popular place to meet your old friends and new.

You as a Student Will Feel at Home Here.
Come In and Use the Store's many Conveniences.

MISSOURI MAP MADE IN 1835

G. C. Broadhead of Columbia Has Old Relic.

Before leaving Virginia in 1836, Achilles Broadhead bought a copy of Mitchell's map of Missouri published in Philadelphia in 1835. It is now in the possession of his son G. C.
Broadhead. This map shows that Chariton County then extended north to Iowa. Clinton extended south of the Missouri River. Pettis was bounded on the north by Saline County and on the south by the Osage River. Lafayette and Jackson both extended south to Grand River.
Greene County was bounded on the north by Morgan and Pettis, on the south by Pulaski, and one the east by Crawford. Gasconade was bounded on the south by Crawford and on the east by Franklin. Pinckney was the county seat of Warren, Lewiston the county seat of Montgomery, and Herculaneum the county seat of Jefferson. There was no Kansas City, St.
Joseph, Hannibal, or Marshall then.
In 1835 Missouri had thirty-two counties. St. Louis County had a population of 14,125. The population of Missouri was 140,455.

Another old map was published with Beck's Gazetteer of Missouri and Illinois in 1823 at Albany, New York. The map shows that Howard County was a western county north of Missouri River. Ralls County occupied most of the state lying north of Callaway with a portion north of Salt River. Montgomery included all of Warren, and Pinckney was the county seat. Lillard included all west of Saline between the Osage and Missouri rivers. Cooper, Saline, and Cole were each bounded by the Missouri on the north and Osage River on the south. Wayne County included a large strip on the south extending from the St. Francis River on the east to the western boundary of the state.

In 1817 William McClure published a Geographical Memoir in Transactions of the American Philosophical Society of Philadelphia.
This contained a map of the United States which included Michigan Territory, Illinois Territory, Northwest Territory, Alabama Territory, and Missouri Territory. The Missouri Territory included all land lying west of the Mississippi River and north of the State of Louisiana to British America.

Passing on Song Entries.

Prof. W. H. Pommer, of the department of music in the University of Missouri, will spend the Christmas holidays in a very "pleasant" way. He will devote most of his time to reading the music sent in he is the chairman of the judges.

About ten pieces of music have been received daily in the last few weeks, making a total of more than 600. Yesterday one came from Berlin, Germany. Alaska, too, has entries. One came from there day before yesterday.

The contest will close November 30, and the winner will receive $500.
The committee will meet during the Christmas holidays to look over those to be selected by Professor Pommer from his preliminary reading.
